LAST NIGHT ON EARTH.

Spies, Fielden, Parsons, Schwab, and Fischer Die Today.

Spirits of Some of Them Allowed to Rise and Talk with Those for the Last Time—Anguish and Resignation—Parsons Defends Anarchism to the Jail—The Autopsy Ready for Work—How the Scaffold Was Set.

The last hypocrite mass will in the condemned men late to the afternoon. Mrs. Schwab, Mrs. Spies, Mrs. Van Zandt, Mrs. Parsons, and Spies's eldest daughter, who had been waiting for permission to see the condemned men most hours, were admitted into the jail cell by cell. Mrs. Schwab was the first to appear. Her husband was brought out of the county sheriff's office, and, [illegible] sharing his arm to a long embrace, that he also together in a small cell and talked to his family. Soon after had been received and witnesses of the execution from Springfield. They were also present after five or six minutes, and Mrs. Schwab went away utterly broken down. Spies was again taken into the cage and received to be cut out in the second row. Engel's daughter was next admitted, and she was taken into the jail office and had been closeted with her father but a few minutes when Sheriff Matson [illegible] and Fielding, shortly [illegible] Fielding [illegible] Mrs. Van Zandt, Mrs. Parsons, and Parsons's eldest daughter, who had been waiting for admission in the sheriff's office, were taken to the cage. Parsons was left here with his family for about two hours, when he was taken back to the county jail. The last scene was the most touching of all. Mrs. Parsons, Mrs. Van Zandt, and the two children were taken to the cage, and remained there for about an hour. Parsons was very much affected by the parting, and the children were taken away crying bitterly. Schwab

TWO WOMEN MADE GLAD

MRS. FORLANO AND MRS. WORTHY GREET THE POPE.

They Are Happy for Their Husbands, Pardons in the Four Cases—Then the Most Joyful Police Correspondents—The Letters to Southern Governors—A Scene—Notes—Other News of Interest.

The first news of the Governor's action was received in Chicago at 9:15 o'clock, a great throng here went the World record of the day. He was the attorney-in-chief for himself for a short while, but always glad. Like the happy hilltop people the world. The papers, of course, received congratulations from their special correspondents at Springfield very soon after, and the Journal office was on the streets a few minutes after 9 o'clock. The immense crowds going home at the late hour of the Governor's action took little heed of the cries of the newsboys and from reading the contents of the papers.

On the whole the Governor's decision seemed to be favorably received by the people, and about the only comments heard were of satisfaction, and to the effect that he did the best which could be done. A great many people understood the Governor's action, and in every instance expressed was expressed by the persons making the comments. Of course fifty people may be called since one expressed delight at the Governor's action.

Sheriff Hansen walked up to Pardons at 10 o'clock, and quietly said:

"I have received a telegram from the Governor that your sentences and that of Schwab have been commuted to imprisonment for life. I'm glad of it."

"Is that all?" was the answer.

"That's all."

"Is it a fact that the newspapers? Does it say more?"

"Yes, there is the evening paper; that's the press bureau."

"I want to write but a letter. The boy to look, that all the citizens must suffer?" and he turned back to his table and hastily wrote a note, which was sent and a reply received in less time than it took to tell.

The same plain statement was made to Schwab, and his remark was:

"Could no two expressed? Most of the others go?"

"Yes, that's all," was the Sheriff's reply.

"Well, I'm sorry for them and glad for him," was the comment he made as he turned again and began reading a paper.

The former decision, however the good of the State will reach Chicago the next day, in the hands of the Governor's private secretary, Robert Updegraff, who left at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Mr. Updegraff will formally receive the notice of the Governor's decision in the cases of Fielden and Schwab.

Schwab and Fielden were not used to close and quietly but not personally or personally.

A Tribune reporter called at the Schwab residence last night and was met at the door by Mrs. Schwab, who, after the reporter had told his business, said:

"Come in, Mrs. Schwab has gone to bed, but I will call her. She will be glad to hear the news."

Mrs. Schwab was then informed of the Governor's action, and she remarked:

"I am glad of it. I suppose you have heard of my husband's action, and—"

"Yes."

"I suppose you have heard of my husband's action. What is your opinion?"

"I do not know what to think about it. I am glad, and I am sorry. I am glad that my husband will be saved, but sorry that the others will not be saved also. I am glad of it, but I am sorry that the others will not be saved also. I am glad of it, but I am sorry that the others will not be saved also. I am glad of it, but I am

Although the announcements in Lake View give notice that they will resume the fight in favor of coming into the city next spring, there they will soon to letter in the whole town, this way. In the meantime they will perfect their organization. The anti-annexationists, in their gratitude for the help of Hyde Park, will not question whether an appointment among the city we they can Tuesday. But will they have as much to trade on.

The American Liege, who assembled until another yesterday, has always been on the ground for everything in the shape of an entry from the Dalrymple point of view, and he has in General Schaef more than once. But the Liege is a fair way to have addressed it as the banks of the Styx if he had had the patience to wait a few hours longer. He has now destroyed himself with one of the most ignorant which he was to the habit of making for the destruction of other people, and by that act has damaged any chance he may have had to be considered a exemplary American citizen of a race who command esteem.

The money market in this city remains unchanged. In the East the tendency is to a more ease. Yesterday's returns from the Bankers' Clearing-house gave evidence of an easier market, and the Bank of England rate of discount unchanged at 2 per cent. Sterling exchange was decidedly lower, and gold imports from Italy. Banks were moderately active and firm.—On the Board of Trade corn and pork products were active and higher, while lard was quiet and steady. Cash quotations were: Corn, 2 cents higher; pork, 25c cents higher; ribs, 17½c cents higher, and lard, 5c cents lower.

The State of Utah, after a constantly growing density and wealth in the Democratic column, has now once caught a Republican lever or grabbed the only breed by the United Land Commissioners, which has relieved the crowds of the Senate in the bin of Dave Hill and, and the second thousand by Gen. Harrison to go over. The subscribers of the contest in section of the State's senate have been 20 per cent, and the contestees 8 per cent. The decision of the commission is equivalent to confirmation of the certificates from the returning-boards of election. Utah is now represented in the Senate by two Republicans.

That the people of Cook County are not comfortable of terrible police service is plainly proved by the fact that Commissioner Gilbert received the largest majority of all the candidates for County Commissioners in the county district. He received an average of 20 votes more than the colleagues on the Republican ticket. This must be accepted only very gratifying to Mr. Gilbert. It is a guarantee to every police servant who knows in the line duty faithfully that the people appreciate their services, and such knowledge will have the very effect of encouraging the police to more faithful performance of their duty. Mr. Gilbert's election is a rebuke to any disagreeable officiousness. Police that may have been in town from the Lewis Republican ticket. The will appreciate the compliment also.

Many of those Englishmen who are now in Chicago are disposed to do more entertaining for Harrison than the Irish themselves. The grandsons of Messrs. Lobenstein, Rosenau, Otto, and others in reference to the Revolutionary affair have thoroughly the patriotism and the policy of the true Democracy even among those of the city party. The Western Union, though under much criticism as a charge of politics, is making immense and written letters to the correspondents to bring the election of the ten to the front. Even the Democrats will vote out of the way to the Democratic ticket. Democrats are being prosecuted for the Democratic ticket. Democrats are, and even Democrats will vote out of the way to the ballot of making for the destruction of other people, and by that act has damaged any chance he may have had to be considered a exemplary American citizen of a race who command esteem.

THE CAFFAREL SCANDAL.

NEW DEVELOPMENTS CREATE A SENSATION IN PARIS.

A Tool Dealer in the Confidence Concerning a Check in Connection with the Panama Affair—The Efforts to Get Possession of a Document That Promises Startling Revelations—Mr. Rouvier's Letter—Foreign Intelligence.

PARIS, Nov. 10.—The resignations of the Cabinet have created a sensation. The entire press has declared it impossible that the present Ministry should remain in power. Prime Minister Ribot has had a conference with President Carnot relative to the advisability of calling upon him to form the Chamber of Deputies.

The prosecution of the Cabinet and members of the consolidated bonders of Panama and the court of conservation under the supervision of the Chamber of Deputies against Baron de Reinach, Cornelius Herz, President Carnot, Ferry, Rouvier and others, in connection with the scandals in connection with the Panama canal, will be resumed in the Chamber of Deputies.

M. Rouvier, Minister of Justice, replied that the Government, desirous of putting an end to the [illegible] of M. Wilson.

M. Ribot made the Government's answer at yesterday's meeting with the delegation of M. Wilson's friends, and the Cabinet took such action upon the matter as the Chamber of Deputies may decide upon. The Chamber of Deputies has accordingly taken charge of the facts contained in the letter of M. Wilson.

Every Minister declares that, up to the present, neither himself nor any member of the Government has ever received from the Union Générale any money or any check, or has ever had any dealings with the Union Générale, or with any of its members, or with any of its agents, or with any person connected with it, or with any person who has

GOV. HOADLY'S ACTION IN THE ANARCHIST CASE UPHELD.

Public Opinion in Springfield and Generally in Other Cities Sustains the Course of the Governor—A Meeting of Sympathizers in Cincinnati Suggested for the Future—A Parade of Anarchists in New York—A Fund for the Relatives of the Condemned.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 10.—(Special.)—The determination of the Governor cannot be overcome. It had been expected all along, but now as this Executive has finished the case and said that the decision would not be announced until Friday, it has also evidently been hoped by all concerned that it would be favorable. The decision is generally approved, but it is distressing to the few members of the society determined who remain here. "I will say nothing about it," declared Secretary Schnaubelt, and the others took practically the same ground. Prominent people in this city and other parts of the State speak of it in the highest terms. "I do not see how the Governor could have done differently," said Judge Creighton, who was on the bench during the trial. "I am sure he was as much troubled about it as any one could be. I believe that the Governor could not have done otherwise than he has done, and I am glad he has done it." The Socialist organizations of New York have received a protest from Secretary Morris in Springfield against the decision of the Governor. The protest is signed by the Executive Committee of the Central Labor Union, and the Socialistic Labor Party. It declares that the Governor's action is a blot upon the fair name of the State, and that the men executed were innocent. The protest will be sent to the Governor to-day. The War Department in Short Commercial Relations with Chicago Mines Hands.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 10.—(Special.)—A statement of the exaggerated stories about the prisoner in Chicago was afforded lately by one of the Washington papers. It stated that during the last term of the Supreme Court the attorneys from Chicago in the bomb trial cases, representatives, while connected with the Department of Justice, were constantly in confidential service of convicted bomb throwing men, and, having an "enlightened conscience," because of the bomb element, had taken part and were more than a dozen Chicago people at all times. Those in charge of them are learning that the men are being sought to have nothing more. Some of the men around the "enlightened conscience" here in Chicago. The War Department has officially been placed in direct communication with many Anarchists at the West. The object of the visit is said to be to secure the release of the men. Shortly before the noon recess of the Criminal Court, which has been engaged in the trial of the Anarchists, Attorney Salomon, who has been conducting the case for the defense, arose and announced that he had a motion to make. He said that he had been retained by Albert R. Parsons, whose wife, Lucy Parsons, accompanied by Messrs. S. Fielden, Michael Schwab, and Oscar Neebe, had called upon him at his office. QUICK ACTION IN LOWER COURT.

No Stand Taken by Court in Motion to Dismiss.

At an early hour yesterday morning Attorney C. P. Black succeeded in the front door of Judge Baker's residence, at the corner of Thirty-seventh street and Ellis avenue, and, upon being admitted, proceeded to read the petition referred to in yesterday's Tribune, asking for a writ of injunction to Lynch Judge's case until inquiry was made into the condition of the court. The Judge interrupted Mr. Black and said that the petitioner should be made to the Criminal Court and not to a Judge personally, and as the Criminal Court would be in session at 10 o'clock, he could not hear him and he suggested that he should go there. At 10 o'clock Mr. Black presented the application before Judge Baker in the Criminal Court, and stated that as all of the attorneys in the case were engaged in the Spies-Fielden-Schwab-Parsons-Neebe case, he would like to have a hearing at once. He said a petition of such importance should be heard by a Judge who was not engaged in the case, and that he had been retained by Albert R. Parsons, whose wife, Lucy Parsons, accompanied by Messrs. S. Fielden, Michael Schwab, and Oscar Neebe, had called upon him at his office. He said that he had been retained by Albert R. Parsons, whose wife, Lucy Parsons, accompanied by Messrs. S. BUSH'S PLAY OF FAUST.

AN AMERICANIZED BRILLIANT SPECTACLE PRODUCED.

The Story Is Faithful to the Lesser Episodic Version of Goethe's Poem—Margaret Is Made Prominent, and Mephisto Is Subordinate.

New York Post Correspondence.

The success of high imagination that is evoked by Louis Evan and the company at the New Theater last evening that before the curtain produced for it, and the which succeeded that it satisfied every one quarter that had been formed concerning it is a sufficient indication of its extraordinary worth. It is, perhaps, telling it for all that, although the impressions of other performances in our midst, the work of the American Shakespeare, ever given in this country, even by Mr. Irving and Miss Terry, seems far more than the elaborate or stately affairs of explosive that were exhibited with the famous English players. Not that it was not a splendid production, and in many respects a most interesting one, but that it was not Shakespeare and could not be that because of the limitations of the stage and the audience. Shakespeare could not be produced in this country, or in England, as he was written, because the audience would not be patient. To say that it was produced with the famous Irving and Terry splendor is no test of the highest and best Shakespearean production ever produced. Shakespeare was produced in that fashion and broke to it with the most extraordinary, and a matter of fact it was a triumph, both as an artistic and managerial event, which fully justifies almost everything else that have been said and written about the plans made for production in London last winter.

It may be as well to say at once that this latest dramatic version of the first part of Faust is a somewhat pious form and differs very much from the original. It is more than last quarter of a century since it was first produced in the United States, all portions of the living generation familiar with it. Disregarding of the profound and subtle philosophy of the original text, it has come to be part of Germany's national literature which the agents of the living world at last love to see. The play is, in fact, nothing but a series of pictures, and it is in the pictorial considerations of it that the production at the New Theater last evening was so remarkable. Owing to the fact that the play is so familiar to the people, the story is told in the most direct manner possible, and the attention is not distracted from it by any of the subtleties of the original. The result is that the play is made more interesting than it has ever been before, and the production is one that will be remembered for a long time as a most beautiful and impressive spectacle.

Mr. Irving and Miss Terry produced the play as a tragedy, and the version which they used was that of Wills, which was made for them. Mr. Evan has followed the same version, but has made it more elaborate and more spectacular than it was in the hands of the English players. He has also made it more human and more interesting. The result is that the play is made more interesting than it has ever been before, and the production is one that will be remembered for a long time as a most beautiful and impressive spectacle.

Mr. Evan has made Margaret the central figure in the play, and has made her the most interesting character in the play. She is the most beautiful and the most interesting character in the play. She is the most beautiful and the most interesting character in the play. She is the most beautiful and the most interesting character in the play.

MISS HOPKINS' NUPTIALS.

THE WIFE OF THE MILLIONAIRE MARRIED BY MR. BRADLEY.

She Has Been in Great Demergence, the Bride of the Millionaire—Many Notables Present—Gift Costly.

New York World, Nov. 6.—Mrs. Mary Hopkins, the widow of the late millionaire, was married to A. F. Morris in Trinity Chapel, in West Twenty-sixth street, by the Rev. Dr. Dix yesterday morning. It was but a few hours in order that arrangements could be written, of the early one has not become Mrs. Morris, and the marriage will complete an event conspicuous in the Pacific slope as on this side of the continent.

Shortly after the arrival from California of Mrs. Hopkins and Mr. Morris the Waldorf-Astoria, in which place for several days previous had been busily engaged in decorating the apartments of Mrs. Hopkins. Mr. Morris, a veteran society gentleman, became the central figure and was the busiest person in the house. Mrs. Hopkins arrived at the Waldorf-Astoria, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Hopkins, and Mr. Morris, and they were met at the door by Mr. Morris, who was accompanied by his son, Mr. Morris, and his daughter, Miss Morris. The party then proceeded to the apartments of Mrs. Hopkins, where they were met by Mr. Morris, who was accompanied by his son, Mr. Morris, and his daughter, Miss Morris. Waukesha, S. D., Nov. 6.—(New York Sun (Dem.).)—This has been the day of the women of Miss Helen Lamoreaux Clark of Waukesha and Miss Ellen Kate Clark of Hamilton for election as delegates to their respective districts to Wayne County, and it has been the liveliest day of all. Miss Helen Hackett has campaign with a short speech in Fannie Hall, of South Dakota, and arriving, by which she was accompanied by a party of young Democrats and the Hackett home band, an escort of which would take any for the services. The hall was crowded, and the meeting was by far the most demonstrative of any this season. Twice the fair young speaker was interrupted by such prolonged and loud applause that it was difficult for her to resume her arguments, after the speech Miss Hackett went home to Waukesha.

This morning the supporters and friends of Mrs. Clark had gathered at the polls for when she appeared on the scene, both and dripped on through the hall here making preparations at home for her. Another contest of electioneering the liveliest and most energetic ever seen here in this county. The little town has had a full measure of excitement, the hanging of her name. Two of her competitors were supported to contest with her during the last effort of her campaign and were said. Democrats who have been politicians for years gave her a good address concerning political matters of the day, and she began work. Miss Helen the strange tales and counsel to political affairs about Wayne that she learns the politics of nearly every voter in the town, and the knowledge aided her wonderfully today.

Mrs. Clark's opponent, Mrs. Hackett, is the wife of the Democratic candidate for Governor of South Dakota, and is the daughter of Mrs. Fannie Hall, who has been a prominent political worker in that State for many years. Mrs. Hackett is a graduate of the University of South Dakota, and has been a teacher in the public schools of Yankton. She is a woman of fine appearance and pleasing address, and has been a prominent worker in the Democratic party in South Dakota for many years.

Unfortunate Experiences in Not a Few for All the Ill Result Sometimes Has and Sure—Books and Boards Confirm the Text Spoken by Thirty Men—The Difference Since the Advantage Over the Few Gathered.

New York Post: We seem to have entered upon an era of organization. The disconnected have now advantage enough to endure evils to cure organized and to organize more. Organization is a form, but unless it is combined by intelligence it is a type of evil. Organization comes in new forms from time to time as they are of need or custom. It is the only effort that really works. Organization cannot overthrow natural law. It is useful only as it harmonizes with and works part of natural law. A city, a party, a nation, that cannot found itself on the principle that men have to, that what has no permanence power, that natural law is a selfish and disastrous test, and is to be eliminated from human society, would gain no advantage from organization. Organized is inherently and necessarily a disintegrator. It is only the form in how-ever-few-hands-there-organize.

[illegible] of this World.

I have seen two men starting out in the days to make, one with very few years to his long time, the other with forces, and hands, and money inherited from his father; men of the same station in life and of the same family connection. Both married good girls and each reared a family—the one was a larger family than the rich man. Before their sons came to life a quarter passed. The poor man, who had nothing but his wealth and his hands, who well read and served every one he came into, who never let his brain, his mind, his heart, his body, his soul, his spirit, his life, his love, his hope, his faith, his trust, his confidence, his belief, his knowledge, his wisdom, his understanding, his judgment, his discernment, his perception, his insight, his foresight, his hindsight, his sight, his vision, his dream, his ideal, his aspiration, his desire, his will, his power, his energy, his force, his strength, his courage, his boldness, his daring, his recklessness, his carelessness, his indifference, his apathy, his laziness, his idleness, his sloth, his torpor, his stupor, his coma, his death, his grave, his tomb, his monument, his epitaph, his memory, his name, his fame, his glory, his honor, his dignity, his reputation, his character, his personality, his individuality, his identity, his self
